ANXIOUSLY AWAIT WORD CONCERNING HULMEVILLE MAN

J. Theron Illick, Wife and Three Children in Nanking

U. S. FLEET IS AWAITED

Japanese Forces Start General
Offensive in Shanghai
Area

HULMEVILLE, Feb. 2.—Relatives here of Mr. and Mrs. J. Theron Illick who are located in Nanking, China, are concerned about their safety at the present time.

Mr. and Mrs. Illick have been located in China for approximately 15 years, and during that time have paid a few visits to relatives in the United States. Mr. Illick has been a most active worker in the mission field, and is a teacher in the department of biology at the Nanking University.

With Mr. and Mrs. Illick in China are their three children, Paul, Roland and Elizabeth.

Mr. Illick's mother, Mrs. Helen Illick, Green street, last heard from her son a few weeks ago; and word has been anxiously awaited since hostilities commenced.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 2.—(INS)—The American Asiatic Fleet, under Rear Admiral Taylor, is expected to arrive in Shanghai at 2 p. m. Wednesday. American Consul-General Edwin S. Cunningham told International News Service late this afternoon.

Arrival of the American ships, which bring the 31st Regiment of the army from Manila, was awaited eagerly by foreigners who were extremely nervous because of the general Japanese offensive this afternoon.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 2.—4:36 P. M.—(INS)—Japanese forces started a general offensive in the Chapei area at 2:30 p. m. today which still was under way two hours later.

Land, air, and naval forces combined their attacks, throwing all Shanghai into a state of terror.

A Japanese cruiser opened a heavy shellfire in the direction of Chapei, seriously endangering the International Settlement.

Japanese planes took the air soon after the lifting of a heavy fog which had shrouded the city all morning.

Japanese land naval forces, concentrated opposite the Chinese in the Chapei sector, were estimated as high as 10,000.

Chinese forces were believed to have been augmented by 50,000 men who entered the Shanghai area during the day.

Residents of the city believed a major engagement was breaking out, with both forces keyed for the heaviest of fighting.

Field guns and machine guns were used in the Japanese drive, which started new fires throughout Chapei, large sections of which were razed last week.

While the Chapei attack continued, Chinese fired 12 trench mortar shells in the Hongkew area, damaging buildings. No casualties were reported. The area was virtually deserted.

Japanese patrols were scarce along Soochow Creek section, the attackers concentrating all their forces on Chapei.

The situation was at the most critical stage since the trouble broke out here. Foreign authorities anxiously awaited the arrival of American and British reinforcements.

Several American and Canadian pilots who came to Shanghai on the strength of the promises of Chinese anti-Japanese organizations to provide flying jobs today turned against them by joining the volunteer corps activities.

After existing as beachcombers for many weeks, these flyers today were lined up against the Chinese for whom they came here to fight the Japanese.

The Japanese drive on Chapei was begun before the Japanese vice-consul informed the Chinese mayor that Tokyo had rejected the proposed truce.

New Britain Pastor Resigns His Charge

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 2.—Intimating that he was mistreated during his pastorate at the New Britain Baptist Church over a period of four years, Rev. H. Warder Lewis, has presented his resignation to take effect on or before June 1, 1932.

In a letter to the congregation Rev. Warder wrote: "I came to New Britain Baptist Church because God led me here. Within ten days I should have been on my way to California (from where we were living in North Carolina) had not God turned me around and brought me to Pennsylvania. It has been a hard field of labor but I have never been willing to endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ. In answer to my constant prayer I am now offering my resignation."

TO FACE "COMMONERS"

Norristown, Feb. 2.—The morals of the smart set will come up for judgment this week before 12 representatives of simple folk when the trial of Edward H. B. Allen, main line society clubman gets under way. Not only the fate of the 23 year old youth charged with the murder of Francis A. Donaldson, 3d, man-about-town and lover of Rose E. W. Allen, hangs in the balance, but Quaker City society itself is to be weighed.

The middle-aged men and women who will hear the Allen case will inspect the secrets, ideals, customs of a philosophical, glamorous world into which most of them have peeped via the Sunday rotogravure section of the newspapers. They will learn how things come off among the dashing, hunting crowds that gather at country clubs and horse shows. They will have a glimpse at sophistication, for, although only 7 of the 12 jurors who will sit in the Allen case have been selected, it is apparent the men and women who will decide the Allen fate are of a different status of society than most of the participants in the melodrama. They come from remote sections of Montgomery county where people live in houses set wide apart and raise large families. They come from communities where church activities are the most popular activities for young and old. Cocktail parties, week-end trips, family squabbles are entirely foreign to these people. Although they have not said so, these conscientious, serious-minded churchgoers do not hold much with chapbookish parties for young people, carefree parties for women, etc. They are plain, righteous people, and are proud of it. So it will be a clash of two worlds, when testimony begins to fall from the lips of the blue-bloods. So far the jury carries two farmers, a truck driver, a former school teacher, a laborer, a grocer, and a carpenter; not one banker, not one professional man.

FAVOR PREPAREDNESS
Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—The opening of the Geneva Disarmament Conference at a time when the Far East is torn up with the Sino-Japanese embroilment, was met today by a demand from Congress to increase both America's aerial and naval defense. Deeply concerned, Congress deemed favorably to preparedness measures.

HELD FOR MURDER

Stroudsburg, Feb. 2.—An echo out of the slaying of Albert Bachman, striking hosiery worker here today followed the arrest of the four men on murder charges in connection with the girl's death. The four arrested yesterday were held under $2,500 each for the Grand Jury, following a hearing before Judge Samuel E. Shull.

BI-CENTENNIAL TO BE MARKED AT DOYLESTOWN

Representatives of Organizations
Band Together for Washington Programs

SESSION ON FOURTH

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 2.—Residents and organizations of the county seat are making plans for the community observance of the bi-centennial of the birth of George Washington.

Eleven special days for marking of such are included in a pamphlet distributed at a meeting of representatives of several organizations of the borough. These include: Church Day, Feb. 21st; Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22nd; Patriot's Day, Apr. 19th; Memorial Day, May 30th; Flag Day, June 14th; Independence Day, July 4th; Labor Day, Sept. 5th; Constitution Day, Sept. 17th; Armistice Day, Nov. 11th; Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 24th; Arbor Day (date set by the president).

An organization for observance of the bi-centennial, occurred with the idea in view of encouraging civic and fraternal and patriotic organizations, as well as churches and schools, to mark such, and assist in any manner possible.

Dr. Carmon Ross heads the organization; with Mrs. Warren S. Ely, of Bucks County Chapter, D. A. R., as secretary. The organization will be completed at a meeting to take place in the rooms of Atkinson Post, American Legion, Thursday evening.

The schools are already outlining programs; and Mrs. Calvin S. Boyer, of the Village Improvement Association; Miss Helen Porter of the Nature Club; and Mrs. Isaac J. VanArtsdalen and Mrs. W. S. Ely of the Daughters of American Revolution, state their organizations will observe the bi-centennial in the near future. A joint celebration in honor of the bi-centennial will be scheduled in the near future by the Doylestown service clubs.

SLIGHT FIRE
There was a slight fire in the barn on the property of Frank Seneca, rear of Penn street, last evening. The Consolidated Department responded and soon extinguished the flames.

CARDS TONIGHT

Everything is in readiness for the card party tonight, given by the Catholic Daughters in the K. of C. Home, Pinochle and "500" will be played. Useful prizes will be displayed. All are invited to attend. Table assignments will be at 8:45.

To See or Not to See

The second of February is the one day in the year when the whole world unconsciously voices a paraphrase of Hamlet's famous soliloquy. "To see or not to see" is the cry when little Jimmy Groundhog awakes from his winter slumber and goes forth for a peep at the world. Tradition has it that if Jimmy sees his shadow on his first outing he'll go right back to bed for another six weeks of winter. But if, on the other hand, no shadow appears, then it is all right for us to begin brushing the cobwebs out of the old straw and shooing the moths from the Summer fannels. Here's hoping!

MR. GROUNDHOG MAKES HURRIED TRIP OUTSIDE

Doesn't See His Shadow, and Furthermore, Doesn't Linger

RETURNS FOR A NAP

GOBBLE KNOB, CANOE RIDGE, Feb. 2.—The Punxsutawney groundhog gave a few minutes to keen thought before putting his nose out his front door this morning. "What's the use of going out now to forecast if we will have more winter. Why, we haven't had any winter yet—only a couple of days at the most." He thought again, and then considered his reputation would be at stake if he didn't go outside and at least see if the sun was up.

First there appeared on the outside of the "front-door" a small nose, then the furry fat body appeared. "Gosh, but it's cold. I'll make a quick trip of it." was the conclusion. One, two, three hasty steps, and then a few more quick ones. "There's no sign of the sun; but I may as well go take another 'forty winks'." And inside he scampered.

The official time of the emerging was 12:30 seconds past seven o'clock, eastern standard time. "It won't be very cold from now until spring," Mr. Groundhog advised the few faithfuls he glimpsed as he made the hurried trip. "There will be the usual 57 varieties of weather, but it will be mostly mild, something like we've had since fall. Now, let me sleep. You know what it is to be wakened from a long nap."

"Come back here," yelled one of the human residents of Gobbler Knob. "Aren't you going to wait a while and give the sun a chance to come out?" "Oh, cast your own shadow," replied the official forecaster of Gobbler Knob, as he sleepily squeezed into his cozy home.

Civic Club of Yardley Plans Covered Dish Affair

YARDELY, Feb. 2.—Yardley Civic Club will hold its February business meeting Thursday in the club rooms, at one o'clock, when a covered luncheon will be enjoyed. Mrs. William C. Beener, Mrs. Fred W. Beans, Mrs. Harvey J. Funk, Mrs. H. Stanley Worthington and Mrs. A. J. Cadwalader will be in charge.

Each member is to bring a covered dish for six, and a plate, knife, fork, spoon, cup and napkin.

Mrs. Francis B. Barnett and Mrs. Alfred A. Danzer will tell of club meetings which they have attended.

MASS MEETING PLANNED AT SOUTH LANGHORNE

Will Discuss Highway Problem at Casino on February 15th

HAVE SPECIAL SESSION

SOUTH LANGHORNE, Feb. 2.—Plans for a mass meeting relative to the question of widening the Lincoln Highway in this section were laid at a special meeting of South Langhorne Business Men's Association last evening, when 55 gathered in the social room of Wunsch's Restaurant.

Thomas B. Stockham, mayor of Morrisville, was present and spoke relative to the layout of the proposed highway that may take its route through Langhorne Manor.

Charles Doyle, president, was in the chair, with Joseph A. Keating acting as secretary of the meeting.

A committee consisting of George Brelsford, Joseph Nemac, and George Walsh, was named to meet with Senator Clarence J. Buckman, and plan for the mass meeting at the Casino on the evening of Monday, February 15th.

At the mass meeting the proposition of widening the Lincoln Highway from Philadelphia city line to Morrisville will be discussed. It is stated by officers of the business men's association that practically all property owners from the Philadelphia line to Oxford Valley have stated their willingness to sacrifice parts of their properties in order to have the present highway widened.

Members of Morrisville Chamber of Commerce, one of the county commissioners, and a division engineer of Pennsylvania are to be asked to attend.

Carl E. Milliken Is To Speak Here Friday

The Travel Club on Friday evening at eight o'clock, will have one of its red letter guest days, which promises to go down in the club history as outstanding.

Members and their husbands, and other guests will hear Carl E. Milliken, of New York, secretary of Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc.

Mr. Milliken spends part of each year in Hollywood, in conferences with producers and public groups, and this will be a most unusual opportunity to hear about the industry, from its most gifted speaker.

Miss Grace Shaver will render a group of songs, and the Travel Club quartette will sing the Maine State Song, written by Mr. Milliken's secretary during his first tenure of office, as chief executive of the Pine Tree State.

After Mr. Milliken has concluded his address on "Meet the World," there will be time for questions. This forum will prove intensely interesting and illuminating, it is believed.

Six Travel Club Juniors, under Miss Anna Hawkes, will act as pages. Mrs. Frank Lehman and Mrs. Richard W. French are hostesses. Mrs. Charles T. Owens is chairman of the day.

WILLIAMS TO DIE FOR MURDERING HIS BROTHER-IN-LAW

Found Guilty With Death
Penalty Recommended
By the Jury

TALES MEN OUT 3 HOURS

Jury Requested Additional Instructions and Then Returned to Deliberate

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 2.—Harold E. Williams, Bucks County farmer, must die for the murder of William F. Prophet, his brother-in-law.

Williams was found guilty at 11:21 last night of murder in the first degree, with recommendation of death.

The verdict was reached after a jury of 12 married men had deliberated for three hours and 26 minutes.

On the first ballot, taken a few minutes after the jury retired at 7:55 p. m., the verdict stood 12 for first-degree murder.

On the second ballot, to determine whether death or life imprisonment should be the slayer's fate, the ballot stood nine for the death penalty and three for life imprisonment.

The jury came into Court at 10:22 for additional instructions.

James Bunnager, No. 10, on the jury, an aged man, asked "Is it obligatory that we fix the penalty?"

"Yes, it is obligatory where the verdict is first degree murder," answered Judge Harry S. McDevitt.

At 10:20 the rumor that the jury had found a verdict and was coming into Court stirred the several hundred spectators who had waited in room 453, City Hall. Judge McDevitt was in Court. Col. Vincent A. Carroll, Assistant District Attorney, who prosecuted the case, and Samuel Moyerman, defense attorney, were waiting inside the rail. Williams sat in the seat he had occupied since the trial began. There was a half-grin on his face.

At 11:21 the jurors filed in solemnly. Their faces were set and gloomy. They walked with slow steps, and quietly took their places in the jury box. The Court crier, following the age-old ceremony, called on the prisoner to arise and face the jurors, and ordered the jurors to look upon the prisoner.

The customary questions and answers were asked, and the foreman at last, in a firm voice that sounded louder because of the silence of the courtroom, said:

"We find the defendant guilty of murder in the first degree, with recommendation of death."

Williams, standing by Moyerman, neither paled nor flinched. The half-grin seemed fixed indelibly on his face. Moyerman was more affected than his client. Tears sprang to his eyes, and his voice was husky as he made the customary motion for a new trial.

The jury was then polled, each man answering firmly from his place in the jury box: "Guilty of murder in the first degree, with recommendation of death."

SEEK CONTRIBUTIONS IN EDDINGTON SECTION

Bensalem Welfare Association
Has Meeting in Eddington

MORE FAMILIES IN NEED

EDDINGTON, Feb. 2.—Letters are to be mailed to residents of Eddington and vicinity, in which requests will be made by the Bensalem Welfare Association for contributions for alleviation of need of residents of the township.

A meeting held in the Episcopal parish house here last evening, was presided over by A. T. Smith, Cornwells Heights, president of the association. Mr. Smith later turned the session over to Harry Seltzer, chairman of the Eddington district.

Contributions have been coming in splendidly in all sections of the township with exception of Eddington, and the meeting of last night was conducted in order to arouse more interest in this territory and keener knowledge of the need.

Committeemen present reported more families requesting food and clothing; and a resume of work conducted showed those in need are being well cared for by their neighbors and friends.

Approximately 30 were present. No date was set for the next meeting.

Hands Down Decision In Hilltown Case

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 2.—Judge Samuel E. Shull, of Stroudsburg, specially presiding in the Hilltown Township school director cases that have been in court for a period of two years, yesterday handed down an opinion in Quarter Sessions Court in which he ruled that three school directors must stand trial on charges of malfeasance in office. The motion to quash the bills of indictment was denied and the demurrer to the indictments was dismissed.

The three directors are Elmer S. Umstead, Arthur B. Moyer and H. Warren Moyer. The long-drawn-out fight has been in court for a long period of time and grew out of a dispute over the selection of a site for a proposed new $110,000 consolidated school building.

Mrs. May Smith Dies In Episcopal Hospital

LANGHORNE, Feb. 2.—Mrs. May Smith, wife of Constable Robert Smith, of Parkland, died Sunday at Episcopal Hospital, Philadelphia, following a few weeks' illness of complications. She was 41 years old.

Mrs. Smith was a member of Friendship Council, No. 49, Sons and Daughters of Liberty. Surviving her are her husband and two daughters, Dorothy and Roberta Smith. Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Horner Funeral Home, Bellevue and Gilling avenues, this place. Interment will be in Forest Hills Cemetery, Philadelphia.

Friends may call at the funeral home this evening.

Semen Kurko Dies After Illness Lasting Three Years

Semen Kurko, husband of Anna Kurko, died at his home, 260 Hayes street, yesterday after an illness of three years. The deceased is survived by his wife and three children. He had made Bristol his residence for the past several years.

Relatives and friends are invited to the funeral from the late residence of the deceased Thursday morning at nine o'clock. There will be high mass in St. Mark's Church at 10 o'clock and burial will be in St. Mark's Cemetery.

JUSTICE'S DECISION REVERSED BY TWO COUNTY JUDGES

John H. Alvey, Woodbourne,
Exceeds His Authority
In the Case

PAYS BACK FINE, COSTS

Appeal Made by Howard H. Naylor, of Wrightstown

The decision of Justice of the Peace John H. Alvey, of Woodbourne, in fining a Wrightstown motorist $10 and $2.50 costs on a charge of failing to signal properly before making a turn on a State highway, was reversed in an appeal before Judges Hiram H. Keller and Calvin S. Boyer in the County Court yesterday at Doylestown.

Howard H. Naylor is the defendant who was discharged and the Court directed that Justice Alvey pay back the fine and costs to Naylor, who was represented in the appeal by Webster Achey, of Doylestown.

Naylor was arrested on October 13 as a result of an accident at Pineville when the truck he was driving injured Patrolman John J. Culp, of the South Langhorne sub-station, State Highway Patrol. The officer's ankle was fractured at the time.

On the information of Corporal Goldstein, Naylor was arrested and taken to Woodbourne for a hearing. In the appeal, Mr. Achey, counsel for Naylor, contended that Justice Alvey had no jurisdiction in this case and that no witness against Naylor and no testimony of any eye witness was heard at the hearing. "He was simply fined $10 and costs and that is all there was to it," Mr. Achey declared.

Mr. Achey further declared that the judgment of Justice of the Peace Alvey was entirely unfounded. After an examination of the information, the Justice's docket and other papers, Naylor was discharged.

Calvin R. Bryan, 26, of Soudale, was directed yesterday to pay $8 a week toward the support of his wife and child after a hearing before Judges Keller and Boyer on a charge of desertion and non-support brought by his wife, Mrs. Alice Bryan, 26, of Erwinna.

Mrs. Bryan told the Court that Calvin beat her up on numerous occasions and threatened to kill her.

"Yes," said Bryan with a smile on his face as he looked at his wife, a much smaller person, "I struck her once or twice, but she always hit me first." Bryan said that he struck his wife with his open hand on the side of her face.

"My wife never got very much for me to eat and she was always nagging me," he said. Then he admitted that he never gave her any spending money.

"You seem to be one of those men who have no idea of what the obligations of a husband might be," Judge Boyer remarked. "Although you smiled throughout this hearing, it is nothing funny."

Bryan, who works in a paper mill, told the Court that he made $16.29 a week. He was directed to pay $8.00 to his wife and child and give security to comply with the order.

McCann Held in Jail On Hi-Jacking Charge

Thomas McCann, 22 years old, of Eleventh street and Columbia avenue, Philadelphia, said to have been the leader of a gang of hi-jackers, which stole a truck and trailer belonging to C. Lewis Lavine, Ward avenue, Trenton, early in December, was held without bail last night. He was charged with highway robbery, larceny, receiving stolen goods and carrying a revolver without a permit. The defendant was committed to the Doylestown Jail.

Thomas Robinson, one of the four men being held in the Doylestown Jail for being implicated in the hold-up, was brought to the hearing to testify. He declared that McCann rented a barn near his farm for the purpose of storing the goods seized on the Lavine machines and that he engaged him in unloading the plunder.

Thomas McNamara, of Trenton, driver of the truck, declared that McCann placed adhesive tape over his eyes and after beating him over the head hauled him away in an automobile. Corporal Stewart, in command of the Morrisville State Police, and Bucks County Detective Russo, also testified at the hearing.

Senator Clarence J. Buckman represented McCann at the hearing, while Assistant District Attorney Edward B. Belster handled the case for the Commonwealth.

County Detective Russo and Corporal Stewart, State Police, had difficulty in getting McCann from the Philadelphia authorities. Magistrate Connor refused to release McCann but later Russo and Stewart were informed they might have their prisoner. Stewart had threatened the immediate rearrest of McCann once he was discharged in Philadelphia.

NO THREE CENT POSTAGE

The great American letter, personal and private, seems to have again been made safe for the traditional two-cent stamp. The three-cent stamp forces have been stopped at the first line of defense, although the commander-in-chief himself was at their head.

There were two reasons why the House ways and means committee refused to consider the administration's postal-increase plan, which is part of its revenue-getting, deficit-ending program. First, the committee recognized the jurisdiction of the House postoffice committee, and, second, it welcomed the opportunity to share with others the unpleasant task of drilling still deeper into the dry well of taxable resources.

Chairman Mead, of the House postoffice committee, has officially expressed his personal opposition to the three-cent rate on first-class mail recommended by Postmaster General Brown. There can be little doubt that a majority of the committee concurs with him in this, and congress would consider it only in the gravest emergency and as a last resort. While this class of mail is earning a profit for the government there is no argument for an increase in the rate.

Let those branches of the postal service that are not paying their own way bear the burden of higher rates. If they are essential to the public service, the public will gladly pay what that service is worth.

If the Postoffice Department hopes to some day get out of the red, there is no time more propitious than the present. When the Federal Treasury is overflowing the public is content to pay postal deficits out of general revenue; with the Treasury empty it demands reductions in the overhead to meet 1932 conditions.

CULTS

After the World War there was a wave of popular interest in spiritualism. Millions who had lost loved ones at the front grasped this hope of "communication" in life. It was a natural reaction.

All great social and economic upheavals are followed by the sprouting of new cults, the market crash of 1929 being no exception to the rule.

When a speculator found that the bottom had dropped out of the market, and out of his purse as well, he either went to work, committed suicide or turned away in despair from the material things of life to the spiritual. Hence the sudden epidemic of cults, some apparently quite sincere, others simply new rackets.

The basis of nearly all of the post-crash cults is the power of mind over matter. They teach that happiness lies not in coupon-clipping and luxury, but within one's self. The convert is told that failure, misery, poverty and overdue bills are only manifestations of evil thoughts.

While these cults offer a comfortable "defense mechanism" to a man who might otherwise engage a hotel room for jumping-off purposes, their stock will drop with the return of prosperity and another boom market.

These new cultists bear out the saying that a man in despair will believe anything.

STATE NEWS

PITTSBURGH.—Howard H. Hardy, 24-year-old sailor of Seattle, Wash., has given up the sea for art, he announced here as he enrolled in the Art Institute of Pittsburgh.

Having served three years before the mast on United States coast and geodetic vessels, Hardy brought with him some mementoes of his life in the world of spars and rigging.

One of them is a life preserver. It was given him, he said, by Vincent Natal, gunner's mate, who sank the U-boat that sank the Lusitania.

"Natal dropped the depth bomb that sank the submarine which fired on the Lusitania," said the sailor-artist.

Hardy said that the life-preserver was from the sunken S. S. Alentian and he told the story of its floundering, giving it an ironical twist.

"The Alentian," Hardy related, "went aground on some uncharted rocks in the Gulf of Alaska and sank two summers ago."

"All the passengers and crew were saved by the survivor ship except one. And, the only man who lost his life was a member of the crew who owned a horseshoe which, he said, always brought him luck."

"He was already in the lifeboat when he decided to go back and get the horseshoe he left in his berth. While he was on board, the ship sank."

PITTSBURGH.—Count among the accomplishments of County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern that of weather prophecy.

McGovern showed it when county commissioners set about paring the 1932 budget.

One item called for $75 for a new snow plow in the department of maintenance.

"Cut it to $50," said the commissioner. "It isn't going to snow this winter anyhow."

NOT True!

SCHOOL WAS OVER—where was Mary Ann? Annoyed and anxious, Mrs. Bender looked up and down the street. The child was nowhere in sight.

Alarmed, Mrs. Bender ran next door. "Oh, Mrs. Bird," she cried, "Mary Ann hasn't come home! May I use your telephone to call the school?" Not a clue from the school. As the afternoon waned, Mrs. Bender became frantic. The whole neighborhood took up the search.

Then Mary Ann came home, proudly in an automobile. "I was playing with Billy Sharp," she explained. "His mother wanted to tell you, but we have no telephone, so I waited for Mr. Sharp to bring me home."

"We have no telephone!" echoed Mrs. Bender. "But from now on we will. I wouldn't go through that again for anything!"

As an everyday convenience the TELEPHONE is worth many times its low cost. In emergencies it is priceless.

"The GAY BANDIT of the BORDER" by TOM GILL

SYNOPSIS

Young and handsome Ted Radcliffe arrives at Verdi, a Mexican border town, as the search for "El Coyote," the notorious masked bandit, is at its height. "El Coyote" avenges the outrages perpetrated by the wealthy and powerful Paco Morales against the peons. Ted learns from Bob Harkness, his late father's friend, that Morales was responsible for Radcliffe Senior's failure, but Bob urges him not to make an enemy of Morales as he has other plans. Ted is attracted to Morales' beautiful niece, Adela. "El Coyote" sends his lieutenant to urge the ranchers to join him in overthrowing Morales. Jito, Morales' ward, warns him he will lose power unless "El Coyote" is killed. At Morales' fiesta, Ted draws his host into conversation about his father.

CHAPTER XV

Ted lighted a cigarette. "What do you think was the cause of my father's failure?"

"It was simply that he had borrowed and expended too much at the wrong time, señor. If it had not been for those disastrous days when money was impossible to get, and when every security was toppling, your father might have doubled his millions. But things went badly. Your father had been indiscreet."

"Did my father ask you for help before the end came?"

"He asked me to keep the Mexican government from cancelling its concessions. I could not do that for him. I myself was fighting against failure."

"Señor Morales, if you will pardon a blunt question in your own house, did it help you in your own difficulties to have my father fail?"

Morales looked at Radcliffe. He may have been deciding on an answer, but the deeply lined face betrayed nothing. "As a matter of truth, it would not. Had it come earlier—perhaps, yes. But let me say this. It is something I hope you will believe. I would not have had your father fail for my own benefit. He was, in a sense, my friend."

Ted thought of Don Bob's words and was silent. His steady gaze held the black eyes of Morales for a moment, and it may have been that the Spaniard's quivered for an instant.

"All this—it will profoundly change your future, Señor Radcliffe. Might one ask your plans?"

"I have no real plans as yet. Don Bob has offered that I work with him. I'm going to try it. If I find that I am only a charity burden, I'll go back East, and yet—"

He looked out the broad window toward the blazing desert. "Everything here has made me want to stay. Perhaps for always. The East holds very little for me now."

"Let us hope you will stay always," Morales rose and looked at his watch. "In the half-hour will be our horse race. Until then I shall leave you with Adela while I ask Don Bob to come to my office."

As the footsteps of their going died away, the girl looked up from her deep chair. She reached out and took his hand.

"It is a very brave thing you are doing, Ted Radcliffe, to hold your head up beneath this sudden blow. But do you mind if I add one word—a word of caution?"

"Say anything in the world to me you want."

"Then I want to say this. Something in your manner tells me you believe uncle may have had something to do with your father's loss. Whether he did or not I can't say. I know nothing of his enterprises. But until you are sure, or until you can see some end to be served, be careful, my friend. I would not have conflict between you."

"Why?"

"Because," she answered simply,

"Say anything in the world to me you want," said Ted.

"I am fond of Don Bob and I like you. My uncle is very powerful and he holds to the Spanish ideas of a blow for a blow. You won't think me meddling for saying this, will you?"

"I think you're quite, quite perfect, and I'll talk no more today about what has passed. Out here, in this place of beauty and yesterday, it is hard to think that any other world exists, isn't it? At least a world where bonds and stocks and failures have any place."

"I often wonder if they have," she questioned slowly. "I was East for two years at school you know, and at times people would take me down into what you call the business section of those great cities of yours. I always felt I was stifled. I felt so sad. Always I wanted to take those pretty little girls who were sitting there bending over typewriters or great red-lined ledgers and say to each of them: 'Child, child, let all that alone. Leave it to old people who have nothing else to think of. For you the sun is shining and outside there is someone waiting to fall in love with you!'"

He stood watching her. Watching the changing colors of her long oval face, the shadows that came and went before her eyes, and the piled-up glory of her hair. And as he watched, Ted wondered if for her, too, life was waiting outside and somewhere a lover and the old eternal passion of love's madness.

"I have a theory," he answered gravely, "that all those girlish heads knew a great deal more about what was waiting for them outside than you suspected. And if you had been there at the closing hour, you would have seen them dusting powder on their noses, and not wasting time on any theories. But I'd like—"

Ted stopped. A tall, powerful figure stood outlined against the patio entrance. A Mexican cowboy in all the gorgeous attire of fiesta. Silver conchas gleamed against the milky-white leather chaps. A silk shirt of deep blue and above that a blue handkerchief knotted. A tremendous man. He might have been twenty-five or a little more. Thick, coarse black hair lay about his temples. A long scar seared his forehead.

"Adela mia," he began in Spanish. Then, catching sight of Ted, he added quickly: "Dispense, Señorita, your uncle asks if you care to come and see the races. I tell him if you will not come I myself will carry you. For must you not be there to say, 'Esplendido, Jito!' when I win?" His white teeth showed beneath the smile, and his black eyes searched her face. Rather obviously he was much in love with her and with himself, this great, powerful Mexican. Adela nodded up at him.

"All my life I spend admiring you, Jito. What will you do when I fall in love with someone else and go away?"

Confidently the man smiled down at her. "Why, that is so easy! I shall break him in two—so. And his great hands closed together in a twisting gesture.

The girl laughed outright. "Sweet and simple solution." She turned toward Radcliffe. "This wildcat of the desert is Jito, my uncle's ward, and, according to his own admissions, he is a very devil of a fellow. Jito, you have heard of Mr. Radcliffe, who comes all the way from the Atlantic coast to show you you're not the only giant in the world."

The Mexican stretched forth a great hand, and, to his surprise, Ted found, as they stood face to face, that he had to look up into the other's eyes. Jito's own eyes traced the outline of the American's form.

"St. I have heard of the Señor Radcliffe. Already my men tell me of you, and I remember once reading about you—how in three minutes, or four, maybe, you throw the best wrestlers of the colleges. I, too, can wrestle." He laughed and nodded, filled with energy and delight in living. "Yes, you are a powerful man, Señor Radcliffe. It would be good to lock us both in a room to see who should come out, eh? Again he laughed in high delight at the thought.

"It would be decidedly bad for the room—an altogether untidy idea," the girl answered. "So run along, big one, and tell my uncle we are coming to see some unknown peon beat you in the race."

"Not while I live, littlest," he answered, and, leaning down he snatched a rose from her waist. "I take this to win," he called back, and was gone.

A Little Jumping Goat Gave Its Name to TAXICAB
Taxicab is an abbreviation of taximeter-cabriolet—a vehicle carrying an instrument for automatically registering the fare. The name cabriolet is the diminutive of the French cabriole, meaning "a leap" like that of a goat, and was applied to this type of carriage because of its light, bounding motion. Cabriolet came from the Italian caprella meaning "a somersault," from Latino capra "a he-goat," capra "a she-goat." There are thousands of such stories about the origins of English words in

DAYTIME COATS IN DAZZLING HUES ARE REPLACING BLACK

By Alice Langellier
PARIS.—Distinctly dazzling are the daytime coats now appearing on smart French women in chic places of the capital, now that they have finally decided to try something other than their favorite black.

The Baronne Edouard de Rothschild who has rarely worn anything but black or white, has been seen in one of Madeline Vionnet's beige woolen coats with a silver fox collar scarf which slips over the head and around the waist.

The Grand Duchess Marie of Russia is wearing Delong's brown broadcloth coat for smart daytime events, a simple straight-line one with large draped collar of beaver and barrel cuffs of the same fur. It has a broadcloth belt and two flaring ties of it at the waist.

Worth makes a smart top-coat of dark king's blue, with double-breasted effect trimmed with gold buttons and deep cuffs. Another in rich prune shade has a button on one shoulder, a curved line for closing and three buttons, one above, one on the belt and one just below.

The Marquise Murietta is wearing a astrakhan revers and small collar, and lovely dark blue tweed coat with grey another chic Parisienne is wearing a very bright emerald green coat trimmed with the popular brown astrakhan.

WOOL FABRICS ARE FEATURED IN NEW STYLES OF SPRING

Practical Sport Things Made of Wool; English Flannels Used

By Alice Langellier
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
PARIS.—It is going to be a very wooly summer even if warm breezes blow, with the dressmakers in Paris having made the startling discovery that wool is even cooler than silk in the good old summertime.

Woolen fabrics will form the basis of almost every smart collection this spring. They often look like silk or cotton and sometimes are exquisitely embroidered.

Worth is showing some practical sports things of lightweight wool for Riviera wear which will undoubtedly have much influence on the models designed for spring. One comes in pale grey flannel with a blouse of bright orange crepe de chine. The jacket and skirt are trimmed with gold buttons. A black and white striped woolen frock—stripes, by the way, are going to be very prominent this spring—has the neckline banded with white pique.

English flannels will be much used to make smart little tailored suits which are to be an outstanding spring fashion. And there is a lovely new tweed at one of the dressmakers which will be used for spring sport clothes. For evening there are some new velvets with queer crepe-like surfaces developed from the Bagheera velvet of last season.

Cotton, too, promises to be popular for warm weather wear, especially a cotton jersey. A great deal of artificial silk is also coming in, as well as lovely rough homespun silks and linens and a new fabric which is like a coarse woolen sacking which dyes in lovely shades and will be pretty for the new blouses.

IT'S SO EASY to find just what you want in the Classified Section with its convenient, indexed arrangement.

COLUMBANS PEPPED UP; CELTICS LOSE A FRAY

(By T. M. Juno)
Last Night's Results
Columbians, 28; Shamrocks, 22
Gael, 36; Celtics, 23

Aided by the return of "Marty" Fallon to the lineup, the Columbians won their contest with the Shamrocks last night on the Hibernians' floor by the count of 28-22. In the other A. O. H. league game, the Gael chalked up their fifth straight win, beating the Celtics, 36-23.

Fallon, in his return to the lineup after a week's layoff, hit the cords for five double-deckers and a foul, for a total of eleven points and took high scoring honors of the game. The entire Columbian team played wonderful basketball, playing equally as well on the defense as on the offense.

The losers were game and possessed plenty of fight, but were outclassed by "Doc" Potts' boys. Rodgers was the best for the "Shams" with four goals from the floor.

The Celtics threw the biggest scare into the Gael in the second fray of the evening. At halftime the "Celts" owned a 17-11 lead and things looked mighty bad for the league-leading team. But soon after the second half was started "Jimmy" Dolan's boys began to find the net and sunk in 25 points while the Celtics could make only six.

E. Roe, A. McClafferty and N. McGinley shared the scoring honors for the winners with 31 points among them. "Hubby" Brady was the losers' star with four twin-pointers and two fouls.

Tonight the A. O. H. basketball five will meet Tullytown A. A. and the A. O. H. Reserves meet the Tullytown Reserves.

Constable Goes to Jail For Drunken Driving
DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 2.—After pleading guilty to two charges of operating an automobile while drunk, Constable Frank Maggory, of Warrington township, was fined $400 and costs and sent to the county prison for a period of not less than eight months or more than three years by Judge Hiram H. Keller yesterday. He was also placed on probation for three years.
George Brandt, of Neshaminy, pleaded guilty to assault and battery on a neighbor, John Grackek, and was sentenced to 30 days in jail. He struck Grackek with a piece of wood and a bottle.

John Czech, Milford township farmer, pleaded guilty to a charge of manufacturing intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes on his farm. He was fined $100 and costs. The Czech farm was raided by Constable A. R. Atkinson, of Doylestown, who seized a 15-gallon still. Czech told the court that he made the whiskey for his own use and not for sale.
After entering a plea of guilty of stealing chickens, geese and turkeys from numerous Bucks county farms, Lester Moore, 44, of Hollicong, changed his plea to not guilty. He will be tried at the regular criminal term later this month. Sentence was deferred on two others arrested for the same charge, Frank Palmer, 19, and Earl Moore, 18, who pleaded guilty to the theft of chickens.

against the Japanese. They drew up a list of Japanese violations of international usage which have occurred since last Thursday. They planned to present a strong protest this afternoon.
American Marines guarding the International Settlement boundaries announced their intention to permit Chinese refugees from the areas under the heavy Japanese fire to enter the settlement at will.
By Floyd Gibbons
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
SHANGHAI, Feb. 2.—"No Japanese Marines have landed in Nanking and I have no intentions of landing them there."
With these words the admiral of the Japanese fleet, Kirochi Shirozawa, definitely denied that he had landed marines at the Chinese capital, temporarily abandoned, which was bombarded for two hours yesterday from Japanese ships.
The Admiral received me in his quarters here on a Japanese gunboat in the Soochow Creek in front of the Japanese Consulate.
"Why did the Japanese cruiser from Middle River open fire unprovoked on a sleeping town?"
"Our firing was not unprovoked and Nanking was not asleep," the Admiral replied, smiling.
"That is the kind of misleading propaganda we have to battle. The facts are that the Japanese military opened fire on our ships at 11 o'clock (11 p. m. Monday). It was dark and nobody could see who fired the first shot and that is why the Chinese blame us. Three shots were fired and at the same time the Chinese regular army opened up their machine guns on a small detachment of our sailors guarding a warehouse. Our sailors responded and repulsed the attack."

his second fight for his life, heard the key turn behind him in the Sheriff's cellroom, where he was locked up for the night.
He had not even the consoling memory of his mother's or wife's sympathy to take with him to the darkness of his cell.
Mrs. Clara Symington, the mother, and Mrs. Betty Williams, the wife, had left the Courtroom an hour before the verdict was returned. Mrs. Symington was near collapse, as if she knew and dreaded what was to come and had been assisted home.
Herbert V. Prophet, brother of the murdered man, was present when the verdict came in. He heard it with joy, seeing in it a vindication of his dead brother.
"Williams got what he deserved," said Prophet. "I feel now I can hold my head up when I walk abroad. Because of the terrible things that were implied about my brother I hung my head in shame whenever I went on the street. I hear no malice, but I feel the verdict is just."
Mrs. Clara Grace Prophet, widow of the murdered man, and herself convicted as one of his slayers, was not in Court to hear the verdict, which she had fought to prevent. She was one of the chief defense witnesses. The fact that she was given life imprisonment while Williams was sentenced to death at the first trial was considered the strongest point in his favor.
The concluding hours of the trial last night were marked by a bitter denunciation of the defendant by Judge McDevitt in his charge to the jury.

Many Tots Attend Party Given for Yolanda Puccio
Yolanda Puccio, daughter of Leon Puccio, Pond and Logan streets, celebrated her eighth birthday, Sunday, and in the evening was an unexpected hostess to several friends. Yolanda had been visiting, and when she returned, was surprised to find friends gathered at her home.
Games, singing and dancing amused all. Clara Peio received the prize for the donkey game. Pauline Greco rendered a vocal solo, and Florence Antonelli and Yolanda Puccio sang. Refreshments were served in the dining room. The table was prettily decorated, the color scheme being blue and white. A birthday cake graced the center of the table.
The invitation list included: Gloria Greco, Marie Fallon, Florence Antonelli, Pauline Greco, Clara Peio, Mildred Graham, Lillian Dayton, Neta Nevatta, Eva Greco, Josephine Nevatta.

The International Settlement Defense Council planned further action out of the Court and Judge McDevitt turned to the jurors. "You have done your duty under very unpleasant circumstances," he said. "I thank you with all my heart."
The audience then very quietly, not speaking above whispers, left the Courtroom. Williams, who had lost

There's one Right Size for Cigarettes

● Examine various cigarettes, and you'll find they are not all alike in size. Yet our scientists say their tests and research fix one definite size standard as the best. For a given length, our experts say, there is one right diameter . . . to make the draft right . . . to make the cigarette burn right.
Not only that, when the size is right, the cigarette lasts longer, and smokes cooler. And that "right" size is exactly the standard Chesterfield size.
A detail? Of course—but a mighty important one, figured in extra coolness and comfort. It's by constant attention to just such details that Chesterfield sets cigarette standards.

Notice how round and full each Chesterfield is—how firmly packed. There are two "electric detectives" on every packing machine, to check this detail also!
The right size . . . and the right quality. Chesterfield never changes either one. Measure them any way you want—with ruler, microscope, or test-tube.
Or measure them in the surest way of all—by milder and better taste. And you'll find—They Satisfy! Good, they've got to be good!

● Chesterfield's Radio Program is way above standard too! Let Nat Shilkret's Orchestra and Alex Gray, popular soloist, entertain you tonight . . . while you lean back and enjoy a mild, pure Chesterfield. Remember the hour . . . 10:30 E. S. T. . . . over the entire Columbia Network . . . from coast to coast.

● WRAPPED IN DU PONT NO. 300 MOISTURE-PROOF CELLOPHANE . . . THE BEST AND MOST EXPENSIVE MADE
